NEWARK, N. J., U. S. A.

WISS Shears were first placed on the market in 1848. To-day the Wiss Factory is one of the finest equipped shear factories in the world, making Shears from a bar of steel to the finished product. The reason of this steady and consistent growth is that Wiss Shears have proven most satisfactory to discriminating users.

Since the name "Wiss" was originally branded on a piece of cutlery it has always been our aim to place on the market the finest article that could be produced. We have succeeded in this—Wiss Cutlery is recognized by experts the world over as being the standard of cutlery quality.

It is but recently that we perfected our new "Steelforged" process, a process which enables us to say that we have perfected a shear that is practically unbreakable. Years were spent on direct study of this process, innumerable experiments and tests and considerable expenditure was necessary before we could satisfy ourselves that we had secured perfection.

This is the most important improvement in shear manufacture since 1839. At that time Seth Boyden, the great inventor, a native of Newark, N. J., discovered a malleable to which could be welded high grade crucible steel. Our "Steelforged" process replaced the malleable iron part, which was more apt to break, and now Wiss Shears are made of a combination of special forging steel and a high carbon crucible steel. The special forging steel to give Wiss Shears unusual toughness—the crucible steel to give them their lasting cutting quality. You can bend, hammer and twist the handles of the Wiss "Steelforged" Shears. They will stand the hardest of strains without breaking. Furthermore, they can be finished better and more highly polished, producing a shear that not only possesses high quality, but fine finish.

Wiss Cutlery combines best materials, highest skilled labor and over half a century of practical experience in its manufacture.

How Good Shears Are Made

NOTHING is more difficult to make than a perfect pair of shears or scissors. By perfect we mean shears and scissors which have the following requirements: High Grade Material, Perfect Temper and True Cutting Edges which will last indefinitely.

All shears may look alike to you. Even at the first glance an expert is sometimes unable to tell the quality, but time will surely show the difference between a poor shear and a Wiss.

The manufacture of Wiss Shears is as complicated as that of an intricate piece of machinery, in fact, some of the workmanship is as accurately done as work on the finest of watches. Over 500 distinct operations—nearly every one a hand operation—are required to finish a Wiss "Steelforged" Shear and have it perfectly tempered, correctly ground, matched to a hair's breadth and joined with perfect fitting screws. A shear that will never "chew" the cloth but will always cut clean and smooth the thickest fabrics as well as the thinnest of silks.

A tough, break-resisting, forged steel frame is the basis of the Wiss "Steelforged" Process. This frame will stand the hardest of strains without breaking, being pliable enough in the initial stages of manufacture to enable us to adjust it correctly and accurately and obtain that beautiful shape of the handles and blades so necessary to satisfaction and comfort.

A piece of the finest crucible steel is then welded to this tough frame giving the cutting surface, which when perfectly tempered makes it possible for the Wiss "Steel-forged" Shears to stay sharp longer than any other.

These two parts are forged into one—forever one. They can never be separated; in fact you can not detect the welding point when examining a finished shear. Both are there to do their work—the frame giving strength and toughness; the steel its marvelous cutting quality.

This expensive and unique process has made Wiss "Steel-forged" Shears most famous and gives them a large sale throughout the whole world.

The blades after being welded as above described have a crude shape. The surplus metal is removed, giving the blades of the shear their correct shape.

The screw holes are next drilled. Although this may seem a trivial operation, still it is necessary that these holes be perfect to the thousandth part of an inch, or else the shear will never work satisfactorily.

The next process is that of

HARDENING

and tempered absolutely like every other, so that when the two blades of the shears are put together one will not be harder than the other; otherwise the harder blade would cut into the softer one, spoiling its edge.

The hardening and tempering process has left the blades warped and crooked, and now they must be "peened" (that is, straightened) into shape. This operation necessitates marvelous skill and accuracy. The blade is placed on an anvil and given many light taps with a small hammer to get it in proper shape.

The blade is still a very crude affair, but in the Grinding Room it loses its rough appearance on grindstones varying in sizes from 15 inches to 6 feet in diameter.

hardening, which requires great skill and care. This is done by heating each blade to a fixed degree and then plunging it into a tank of fresh running water. Then comes the tempering process, which consists of placing the blade in a secret solution—which gives the blade the exact toughness required. This is not guesswork. Our methods are such that we have absolute uniformity each and every time. One of our greatest successes lies in this process by which each blade is hardened

Until this stage the parts have been treated separately, but now, they are paired and screwed together and the handles and blades are put in perfect shape and form.

We now have a complete pair of shears still to be polished, then nickel plated or japanned and then finished.

Expert Shear Finishers now take each shear and see that the blades come together and meet each other in a perfectly straight line without any "gnawing" or "grinding" of the edges. Then they test the cutting quality of each shear. Faulty finishing is often the reason why shears get dull so quickly.

The shears are then inspected carefully and should any have the slightest imperfection, they are instantly discarded and no shears or scissors that fail to successfully pass every inspection are ever sold with the name "Wiss" stamped on them.

The Wiss Simplex Shear Bolt

Patent Applied For

ALL the objections and annoyances of the old style bolt done away with.

No springs, no levers or other parts to be lost or become out of order.

The shear can be easily taken apart and the lint and dirt that invariably collects under a shear bolt removed, overcoming the annoyance of having shear blades hard to open and close.

The bolt, when taken out of the shear, consists of only two pieces and can only be replaced correctly.

The operator can quickly adjust the shear to work looser or tighter by the use of an ordinary small screw-driver and a slight turn of the nut.

The bolt is so simple and practical in construction that it at once receives the endorsement of all mechanics and tailors who see it.

Fitted on N pattern Tailor Shears (page 11) without extra charge when so ordered.

The Bent Trimmer might be more appropriately styled the Cloth Cutting Shear. It is the ideal shear for that purpose and is used extensively by professional cloth cutters. By no means, however, is the Bent Trimmer exclusively a professional shear as many of them are purchased by general users who realize the advantages of this pattern when a full cut of the blade is required and lifting or raising of the material to be cut is undesirable. This pattern is used flat on the table like a tailor's shear. The handles are shaped so that the hand will not tire when the shears are used constantly.

Those who use shears continually day after day—the tailor, the cloth cutter, the dressmaker, the leather cutter, etc., will tell you that the Wiss Bent Trimmer is the shear for constant use—the satisfactory shear.

We make shears for every conceivable use—for the household, for tailors, for barbers, for buttonhole makers, for candy makers, for paper hangers, for the office, for horse clipping, for dental use, for grape cultivators, for tinsmiths, for electricians, for cutting carpet, for orange growers, for nurserymen, for general pruning, for rubber workers, for glove makers and in fact for every use for which scissors and shears are needed. The requirements of each shear for each separate use are studied and the pattern is made and adjusted to do that particular work correctly and economically.

The Straight Trimmer

is distinctly the general utility shear. It is oftentimes called the Dressmaking Shear and is the most popular pattern we make. It is the best for general work in the household.

It is made for hard and continuous use.

The shape of the handles and the set of the blades make the use of the Wiss Straight Trimmer easier on the muscles of the hand and forearm than the average shear.

The cutting edges remain sharp because the blades are "shaped" by a peculiar process of manufacture which gives an even and never varying pressure of one blade upon the other—cutting the softest tissue or the heaviest material with an equally clean cut.

There is no grinding of the blades—one upon the other—no "chewing" of the edges.

The Wiss Shear is the standard and practically the only shear in thousands of factories and shops all over the world.

It is the only shear that will stand the daily use of the workman, because it is made of cutlery steel and built just as any other good tool is made—to stay sharp and resist wear.

Trimming Scissors

familiarly known in the trade as Ladies' Scissors, are suitable for light work, such as millinery and trimming of all kinds. Owing to the shape of the points, threads may be cut without disturbing the daintiest of trimmings. While not adaptable for heavy work, scissors to last and give satisfaction must stay sharp and be very finely adjusted. Wiss Scissors are carefully and accurately made and as much care is given to them in their manufacture as given the largest Tailor Shears. Ladies' Scissors, as the name implies, are used almost exclusively by the ladies and accordingly graceful lines and patterns are devised to suit the individual taste. Trimming, Embroidery and Button Hole Scissors, together with Dressmaking or Cloth Cutting Shears have become very popular in sets. These sets are prepared in an attractive manner and placed in leather cases to suit all tastes. The dainty nail and manicure scissors are also placed in cases together with high grade manicure and pedicure implements.

Embroidery Scissors

are a necessity when doing any kind of Embroidery work. No matter how intricate the lace or dainty the drawn work this little scissors will enable the user to cut the smallest particles and snip just the right thread. The points are as fine as needles and retain their sharpness. Wiss Embroidery Scissors are finely balanced and accurately ground, tempered and adjusted. It is one of the most difficult and costly scissors to make correctly.

Pocket Scissors are required by Storekeepers, Clerks, and those continually handling or selling cloth. The Wiss Pocket Scissor is correctly shaped and may be safely carried in the pocket or suspended by a string or tape.

Wiss Tinner Snips

WISS Tinner Snips may be tested to cut 20d wire nails without marring the edges, and then cut clean the lightest of tissue paper. This test shows the fine adjustment of the Wiss Snip, its strength and toughness and its marvelous keen edge.

Wiss Snips are superior in quality and construction—in shape, in cutting edge, in strength, in tests and in finish. They work easier, give more work and better work.

A piece of the finest Crucible Bar Steel welded to the inside of the blades of the toughest of Steel Forgings gives the Wiss Snip its perfect, lasting cutting edge—an edge that will not break or chew the work but which is always sharp. The blades are perfectly shaped, with points made strong and the handles formed so that they will not tire the hand even after continuous use. The most severe factory tests, to which we subject our snips enables us to unrestrictedly guarantee every pair to do their work satisfactorily.

The WISS RAZOR

has been the standard of razor excellence for 60 years.

The Wiss is not a fad. It is a real razor—built of highest grade tool steel, hand ground and tempered by the most experienced workmen in the world.

It has the keenest cutting edge and is tempered to hold that edge. The razor you want is a razor that is sharp when you buy it—sharp when your customer shaves with it—and stays sharp after constant use—a razor to make shaving a quick, satisfactory, painless process.

Every claim we make for the Wiss Razor is a rational one, backed by the merits of the instrument. Abuse or misuse is the only thing that will make it useless. Ordinary handling or usage will never rob a Wiss Razor of its good qualities.

When you buy Wiss Razors you are not trying an experiment but you are buying a razor which will give you and your customers absolute satisfaction.

When a Wiss Razor leaves our factory it is in perfect condition—ready to shave. It has been set, inspected and tested and is subject to our unlimited guarantee—we will replace free of charge any razor which does not prove satisfactory, if returned in good condition.

All of our razors have full polished blades, crocus finished tangs and backs, unless otherwise specified.

J. Wiss & Sons Co.

Newark, New Jersey.

We will supply any shaped razor point desired in the razors illustrated on pages 54 to 66 with the exception of the single shoulder razors (page 66) which are made only with square, honed or round points. Razors listed on pages 48 to 53 are made only with points shown in illustrations.

When recommending razors to users, the following rules, with occasional exceptions, will enable the dealer to suggest the razor best suited for the customer.

Often a razor returned by one person as unsatisfactory will shave another very well. A very narrow blade razor will seldom suit a heavy beard and vice versa.

For exceptionally tough and heavy beards—use a razor $\frac{6}{8}$ inch wide, Medium Thin Concave.

For wiry beards, not very heavy—use a razor $\frac{5}{8}$ inch wide, Medium Thin Concave.

For heavy, soft beards—use a razor $\frac{6}{8}$ inch wide, Very Thin Concave.

For medium soft beards, which are possessed by most men, use a razor $\frac{5}{8}$ inch wide, Thin Concave.

For soft beards, not heavy, use a razor $\frac{5}{8}$ inch wide, Very Thin Concave.

A $\frac{5}{8}$ inch blade razor, Thin Concave, will generally give the best of satisfaction.

When selling a razor we always recommend that the salesman ascertain if his customer knows how to use a strop correctly. By instructing your customers how to do it you will prevent much future trouble and have satisfied customers.
