TO BE "STUCK"

with inferior Scissors

So many scissors which appear to be bargains, turn out to be the most expensive, because after a little use they "chew" instead of cutting — spoil good material, or break easily.

This folder shows several styles of WISS shears and scissors — famous for quality since 1848. Choose one pair or all of them—they are fully guaranteed to give you wonderful service.

BENT HANDLES!

Whether you make only one dress and sigh that your year's sewing is done, or fifty dresses and look forward to the next, you will be much better satisfied with the results if you use WISS Dress-making Shears.

The bent handles keep your hand from getting cramped, permit the blades to slide parallel to your material so you can follow your pattern, and positively assure accurate, tireless, wasteless cutting.

Don't use light shears for heavy work

You need "heavy duty" shears for cutting rope, cardboard, oilcloth, rubber, cloth, and other such heavy materials.

The WISS Household Shears are made for just such work—they'll save wear and tear on your hands and your disposition—even your pocketbook for they'll relieve your lighter scissors of strains that might ruin them.

Made with inlaid steel blades—the process that has made WISS shears outlast most other kinds.

The perfect scissors for your sewing basket

In your sewing basket you want scissors that you can depend upon for a variety of uses.

Maybe for snipping a light, sheer material — possibly for ripping seams—perhaps to cut some heavy fabric.

To do all these things the scissors must be light and easy to handle with needle-sharp points, yet plenty of strength.

WISS Ladies' Scissors are made for just such a variety of uses.

Shears to open bottles?

REMARKABLE!

The new WISS Kitchen Shears will remove those tight jar and bottle tops that sometimes bruise your fingers—decap gingerale and soda bottles—crack nuts and squeeze lemons.

Those features however are just incidental to the main job of cutting practically anything and everything in the kitchen—vegetables, fish, poultry, wire, rope, screening, cloth, etc.

Dashing handles in red, blue, ivory green or yellow.

Another thing—properly tended toenails are as closely related to comfortable feet as they are to holeless stockings.
